

Dear Daughter,

I only convict those I truly love. So trust me when I say that me calling out your harmful ways is not a bad thing. Because I know what is ahead of you, you have to trust me and do things my way. When I say don't go then don't go. But if I say go then let nothing or no one hold you back. I desire your heart and I desire your obedience. Will you give that to me today? Understanding that I am aware of the snakes lying in wait. For I will not let them harm you but because you are my child, I live to protect you. Both of us cannot have our own way; it causes too much friction which is why you are tired and worn out. The burden is not yours to carry so just give it to me. Give them to me.

your loving father, Christ
